CONDITIONS

AT THE CITY HOSPITAL AND THE CITY DISPENSARY.

Report of the County Board of Charities and Correction-Annual Report Also Filed.

The Marion County Board of Charities and Correction yesterday submitted to the commissioners the following reports on the condition of the City Hospital and City

"We were at the City Hospital on May 10 and were shown through the building by the superintendent, Dr. Charles N. C Poucher. We found the population far exceeded the comfortable capacity of the premises, inasmuch as there were 131 inmates, when there should have been but ninety. We are aware that it is the intention of the city soon to erect a wing which accommodate seventy-five patients, and therefore it would seem that there is no need of our giving any details at this time. We are, however, very desirous of emphasizing the fact that the building now in use is in bad condition in many ways and should be placed in first-class order at the same time the new wing is erected. so that when all is completed the hospital, nearer perfection than it now is. "All paper should be removed from the walls and ceilings, a thorough cleaning made throughout every portion of the building from the basement up, the plumbing should be examined in the most critical manner, old bedsteads should be replaced with new iron ones, kalsomine or some similar material should cover the walls and ceilings, and varnish or paint, as may be required, should be used unsparingly. Let the old building be put in as complete order as when it was built, and when the new wing is completed the entire premises will be in such perfect condition that the City Hospital of Indianapolis will be known as model institution. Suitable quarters should be provided for the nurses. "On Nov. 16, 1899, and May 25, 1900, we visited the City Dispensary and found there was need of renovation and repairs, the same as we reported to you concerning the police department. We call special attention to the water closets, which are not in good working order. In the third story means of exit are by one stairway.

escapes should be provided. "We learned that bids had been made for the improvement of the balance of building, and we recommend that the Dispensary receive your attention and the enfire building be placed in complete order."

Board's Annual Report.

The County Board of Charities and Correction filed its annual report in the Circuit Court yesterday. It shows that since the board was organized, July 13, 1899, it has visited the county workhouse, jail, Poor Farm, Insane Hospital, Children's Guardians' Home, Indianapolis Orphans' Asylum, Indianapolis Asylum for Friendless Colored Children, German General Protestant Association, Home for Friendless Children, Home of the Good Shepherd, Little Sisters of the Poor, Alpha Home, Sisters of Charity, Indianapolis Free Kindergarten, police station, City Dispensary and the City Hospital. The reports of the results of these visits were made at the time of the inspection.

THE COUNTY COURTS.

W. E. Reynolds Wants a New Trial-Other Court Matters.

William E. Reynolds, against whom judgment was rendered for $300 damages in favor of John W. Pierson, in Superior Court, Room 2, filed a motion for a new trial yesterday. Some time ago, at the Interstate stockyards, Reynolds took hold of a third person's arm, who was holding to Pierson, and by jerking him Pierson was thrown to the ground. It is said in the motion for the new trial that an attorney told the jury while the court was out the room of a case in Wayne township where one man struck at another who was riding in a wagon with a pitchfork, and, although the fork only struck the lines, the court held the defendant was guilty of assault and battery.

"Oyster Charley's" Children. It is now learned that Charles Richel, known as "Oyster Charley," who dropped dead May 22, had two children, although it was generally supposed he was childless. Archibald Richel, of Gladstone, Mich., is his son, and Mrs. J. J. Jevons, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., is his daughter. No one except his second wife ever heard him mention these children. He occasionally wrote to his son in Michigan, but the daughter, who was adopted by Michael Dubrick and wife after her father left her, twenty years ago, when but a girl seven years old, never heard from him until an Indianapolis lawyer sent her word that he had died, leaving an estate worth $30,000. Mrs. Richel says the estate is worth about $3,000, and that it has been accumulated since she married him and is nearly all owned jointly.

A Counter Claim Filed.

The counter claim of William H. Stringer, receiver of the Eureka Savings and Loan Association, to the interveining petition of T. C. Whitcomb, former secretary of the association, who asks that his claim for $5,000 be put in the preferred list of creditors, was heard by Judge Carter vesterday. In the hearing of the interveining petition a shortage of $21,000 was found in the books and the defendants took a set-off and the receiver was ordered to make an investigation. He reported a shortage of $21,000 and a claim was filed against Whitcomb for that amount. No fraud is alleged, but he is held responsible by the defendents for Clifford Waters has filed a motion for a new trial in Judge Carter's court, in his suit against Caroline Schaub and the Indianapolis Gas Company for $25,000 damages. In the former suit the jury returned a verdict for the defendent after being out but a few minutes. It is alleged by the plaintiff's attorneys that Samuel Goddard, a juror in the case, said the he had never been a witness or party in a damage suit when the jury was examined, and that they have now learned that he was once defendant in a $15,000 damage suit.

> TAX ON GAS MAINS Messrs. Billingsley and Munro, the Republican members of the committee or public property and improvements, made a report on the ordinance to tax gas mains 3 cents per foot. They reported unfavorably on the ordinance, while C. M. Dickson made a minority report recommending that the ordinance pass with an amendment changing the tax from 3 cents per foot to I cent. Mr. Billingsley made a motion to by a vote of 10 to 9, those voting in favor of the motion being Billingsley, Evans, Keller, Knight, Megrew, Munro, Negley, Perrott, Spiegel and Crall. A motion was then made to adopt the majority report which was carried. Later this ordinance came up for a second reading and then Councilman, Megrew moved that it be stricken from the files, which was carried. Councilman Megrew also called up for a third reading general ordinance No. 55, 1899 which was the ordinance introduced last fall to revise the gas rates. He moved that it be stricken from the files and thi was carried by a vote of 13 to 6. When the committee on contracts and franchises made a favorable report on the ordinance granting the D. M. Parry Manuswitch at its factory, Messrs. Bernauer and Knight, the Democratic members of the committee, claimed they had not been treated with courtesy by the majority of the committee as they had not been notified here would be a meeting of the committee before the Council meeting. The report of the committee was concurred in and later the ordinance was brought up for a second reading and on motion was engrossed, read the third time and placed upon its passage, being passed by a vote of 16 to 3. Those voting against the ordin ance were Horan, Kelly and Knight. Councilman Higgins served notice that he would call up the ordinance for a reconsideration of the vote at the next meeting. BICYCLE ORDINANCE. The committee on public safety and com fort reported favorably on the bicycle ordinance permitting bicyclists to ride on the sidewalks of unimproved streets. It was amended so that the minimum fine was reduced to $5. The ordinance was passed by a vote of 13 to 6. Those who voted against it said there was great danger in permitting wheelmen to use the sidewalks, even under the restriction placed upon them by the or-improvements reported unfavorably on the ordinance to annex the property north of Fall creek between the creek and Thirty eighth street and east of Meridian street The ordinance appropriating $2,000 to the contagious-disease fund of the Board of Health was unanimously passed. The finance committee reported favorably on the ordinance appropriating $355 to Russell King, who took the stenographic report of the Council committee's investigation of the Board of Safety. The ordinance came up for passage and was passed by a vote of 15 to 4. Those who voted against it were Horan, Kelly, Knight and Perrott. The members of the Board of Safety wer called together yesterday afternoon audit the bills for the month of May. The letting of a contract for oats for the fire department also came up. Numerous little piles of the entree on the horses' bill of fare were strewn over the large table in the board's office, and the members scruexhibits B. C. D & E. etc. Appellant's tinized each sample closely, just as if they knew something about the various grades. Chairman Roth claimed he knew the various grades, while Mr. Hyde claimed to be versed in grains. Mr. McMillan was anxous that the matter should be left to him as he said he used to be in the machine agreed that Frank E. Janes should have the contract to furnish 3,500 bushels of No white oats at 27 cents a bushel. The board called Captain Cleary, of th merchant police force, before it to ascer tain the number of merchant policemen who were not going to abide by the rule of the board to purchase uniforms. He was instructed to furnish the board with the names of all the officers who have not purchased uniforms, and the police powers of the men will be revoked by the board. The board received two communications from the Board of Works, which were not acted upon. One was for the widening of the space east of the meat market, and the other was for lighting the east markets.

ANOTHER COMPANY APPEARS.

Board of Works Asked for a Franchise for Hot Water Heating.

A franchise to heat this city with ho water and light private residences with electricity is greatly desired by more than one company, and yesterday John H. ## MISS KETCHAM'S EXHIBIT.

Her Pictures on View at the H. Lieber Gallery.

Miss Susan M. Ketcham, of New York. is exhibiting a collection of paintings in oil, water colors and pastels this week at the H. Lieber gallery. Miss Ketcham used to live in Indianapolis, but has been a resident of New York for the past thirteen years, and her exhibition represents the successes of that time. This is her first individual exhibition, although she has exhibited pictures in all the leading art exhibits in the various large cities of the country. During the winter months Miss Ketcham devotes herself to portrait painting and her collection is large and varied but her landscapes, especially those with water and rocks, are so true to nature that one imagines he can hear the soft motion of the water against the rocks. One of the most interesting pictures is entitled "The Mists upon the Waters Fall." The chief charm of the picture is its realisticness It is an ocean, almost completely shrouded in mist. Another, "A Smiling Sea," is charming view of Old Orchard Beach, with a few seal rocks and a great stretch of water and sky. "A Gray Day, Peconic Bay, Long Island," is another delightful water scene, where the waters seem to be moving in tiny ripples. "My Spanish Castle," Bronx, N. Y., is typical of Southern Italy, although it is an old ruin at the entrance of Bronx Park, New York. "The Open Sea," Cape Elizabeth, Me., is another water scene which attracts attention. "Penobscot Bay" shows an old wreck on the rocks and an expanse of blue ocean. "A Meadow," Yarmouth, Me., pictures a green meadow stretching down to the water's edge, with a few rocks and trees to add to the picturesqueness. In the portrait work Miss Ketcham's best work is a painting of her mother, Mrs. Jane Ketcham, of this city. She also has one of her niece, Jane Ketcham. "Study of a Hat" was one of the first pictures Miss Ketcham ever exhibited. It is a picture of a dark-eyed girl wearing a large black picture hat. Her gown is black and cut low at the throat. The face is oval and the skin clear. Another portrait, called "Beatrix," is of a little French girl with large, clear eyes and soft, brown hair falling in ringlets over her forehead. Another charming picture is called "The Murmuring Pines and Hemlocks." It pictures a young, red-haired girl, with a soft, flowing white robe, sitting in a listening attitude. A forest of tall pines and hemlocks is in the background. There are several other delightful pictures in the exhibition, which will continue every day during the week. Miss Ketcham will take a party sketching during the summer months. They will go to Niagara Falls first and then to Quebec and the French villages around Quebec. From there they will go to the White mountains and then to the

A POCKETBOOK THIEF.

Oliver Hackney Was Caught After a

Swift Chase. Oliver Hackney, living at No. 326 East Market street, was arrested last evening by Bicycle Policemen Bray and Losh and slated for petit larceny. The officers found business and was a judge of oats. After him at Ead's drug store, at New York and much wrangling among the members it was Delaware streets, where he was being held. A few moments before he was seen by three people to snatch a pocketbook from Miss Margaret Miller, of No. 1205 Cornell avenue, and run with it. After running short distance he handed the pocketbook to another boy, who got away. Hackney refused to disclose the name of the boy to
